

Dreaming as One, Dreaming as All

by Sarah Nowell

Innocent dreams of
Princess and superpowers
Travelling and adventuring
Excitement and fantasy
Feeling all too real

Children and adults
Of all ages are full of
Dreams in the day and night
All with a different purpose
But all for the same reason of Hope.

People at war
Hope for peace
People in sickness
Hope for a chance again
People no involved
Hope to help.

Communities alike throughout the world.
Want people to be at day
And at night
With hope for something better
A dream of something better
That will become true one day

For a child with no parents,
An adult in hunger,
A parent without the money,
Are all part of the reason we as a community
Care to see the smile on their face once again.